Poetry reading in observance of Valentine`s Day

14 February, 2008

On February 14th, in observance of Valentine`s Day the American Corner, prepared some poems in order to be read here for this occasion. The poetry reading was led by Melissa Hauke, a Peace Corp volunteer and 6 participants were reading love poems and other phrases about love, written by famous writers and philosophers. After one poem was read, it started an active discussion about what was the poem about, who it was dedicated to, what was the tone of the poem: cheerful, sad, bitter, angry...

Also it was discussed about how we celebrate the Valentine`s day in our country, some sweet candies were shared and handouts were given to the participants.
